

Internship with strategic R&D consultancy in Barcelona

Company profile

Bax & Willems Consulting Venturing is a small consultancy that supports leading European industries and public authorities in Open Innovation and collaborative Research & Development. Services include the creation of R&D collaborations and high-tech business plans, the exploration of Open Innovation opportunities and management of innovative, collaborative projects. B&W is based in the centre of Barcelona; we have a small team of some 12 people from various countries.

Applicant profile

Having completed at least 70% of your university studies in industrial design engineering, we expect candidates to have a basic understanding of business processes in a multi-actor environment and an interest in the daily practice of innovation management. Knowledge of and/or a broad interest in technology and policy development are also appreciated.

A good command of Dutch and English (verbally and written) is required. Knowledge of additional languages is considered of added value.

What we are looking for in a person is proactivity, reliability, seriousness, eagerness to learn, team spirit, enthusiasm, ambition and intelligence.

The internship

Period: Starting in September/October for a period of 4 to 6 months (in consultation).

Remuneration: €400 per month and lunch tickets.

The intern will work join small teams of experienced consultants, working on various assignments. Tasks include general support activities including data gathering & analysis, developing ideas and presentations for joint business opportunities and general project management support. Specific projects could include:

- Elaboration of a business concept for Electric Vehicle manufacturing
- Elaboration of a model for Open Innovation facilitation sessions

The trainee will intensely interact with experienced B&W colleagues and will develop an understanding of innovation and project management.
